ANTHROPOLOGY

“In 1984 an Avianca Airlines jet crashed in Spain. Investigators studying the accident made an eerie discovery. The ‘black box’ cockpit recorders revealed that several minutes before impact a shrill, computer-synthesized voice from the plane’s automatic warning system told the crew repeatedly in English, ‘Pull up! Pull up!’”

John MacArthur

SUMMER IN THE SYSTEMATICS

“The pilot, evidently thinking the system was malfunctioning, snapped, ‘Shut up, Gringo!’ and switched the system off. Minutes later the plane plowed into the side of a mountain. Everyone on board died.”

John MacArthur

|| ANTHROPOLOGY ||

“This is an age that gives little thought to the nature and function of conscience. Conscience is easily trampled if it gets in the way of authentic living. More dangerously, conscience is malleable and is easily reshaped to conform, in substantial measure, to the dictates of our age . . .”

D.A. Carson

|| ANTHROPOLOGY ||

“We crush conscience in order to toss off what now appear to be the shackles of a bygone age, and then we immediately resurrect conscience in new configurations that establish new shackles, new expectations, new legalisms, new failures, new pools of guilt . . .”

D.A. Carson

SUMMER IN THE SYSTEMATICS

“For example, by determined suppression a new generation silences the voice of conscience in many sexual matters, and teases it alive when it comes to the importance of finding out where your coffee beans were grown.”
